ABOUT MICHAEL

A lifelong resident of Toronto's west-end, Michael has served for nearly a decade in public office. He was first elected in 2014 as a Toronto District School Board Trustee and has served two terms on Toronto City Council.

Michael has dedicated his time at City Hall to supporting major transit project expansions and making critical investments that create well-paying jobs and strong economic and community growth. Serving on the Toronto Police Services Board, he has also been a strong advocate for investments in community safety, working to strengthen bonds between police officers and residents to make neighbourhoods across Toronto safer.
