ABOUT PATRICE

Patrice Barnes is a proud wife, mother, public school board trustee, cultural organizer, and community safety advocate.

Patrice was born in Jamaica and immigrated to Canada when she was 18, attending Centennial College. For more than a decade, Patrice worked in event management in both the private and not-for-profit sectors, racking up professional successes, awards, and media mentions.

As a champion of community safety, Patrice serves the community as a member of the Durham Regional Police Services Board. She has also proudly represented Ajax students and parents on the Durham District School Board (DDSB) as a Public School Trustee, a position she has held for nearly a decade since first elected in 2014.

Her goal is to make life more affordable for hard-working Ajax families; make the community safe again; create well-paying jobs in the trades and manufacturing; and protect the investments that the PC government has made in hospitals, long-term care, schools, and major infrastructure.
